YouTube Transcript Extraction API Error Report

Author: Unknown
Date: Unknown
Source: Unknown

This report details a specific programming error encountered during an attempt to extract a YouTube transcript. The error message, "type object 'YouTubeTranscriptApi' has no attribute 'list_transcripts'", clearly indicates a problem with the `YouTubeTranscriptApi` object, suggesting that a method named `list_transcripts` was called, but does not exist within that object type. This typically points to either an incorrect method name being used, a version mismatch where the method has been removed or renamed in the current library version, or an issue with the library's installation or import. The error prevents successful retrieval of YouTube transcripts.